The Albanians (Albanian: Shqiptar t) are a nation and an ethnic group in Southern Europe sharing a common Albanian ancestry, culture, history and language. They primarily live in Albania, Kosovo, Macedonia, Montenegro and Serbia as well as in Croatia, Greece and Italy. The majority of Albanians live in Albania and Kosovo, with significant communities in Turkey, Greece, Italy, Montenegro

Between Serb and Albanian: A History of Kosovo: Miranda ...

Vickers says the Albanian question is extremely thorny and very old. On the one hand, the Albanians in Kosovo seemed not to have much interest in being part of Albania proper (probably owing to the radically different and worse standards of living in Albania). On the other hand, the Albanians seem not to want to be part of Serbia either, though many of them moved to Serbia.

This is the first full account of a country that, following decades of isolation, has undergone unprecedented changes to its political system: the collapse of communism, the progression to multi-party elections and the upheaval that followed the March 1997 uprising.
